About the Music Department

St Richard Reynolds has both a Primary School (one form entry) and High School (six form entry) and is growing year-on-year to become a 4-18 school. Therefore our music staff are in the enviable position of delivering an all-through musical curriculum that develops throughout primary and secondary ages. The College's Music Specialism means pupils and instrumental staff benefit from extra support; the department comprises two music teachers (Miss Firman and Miss Williams), along with Miss Moss as Music Specialism Support who works to develop the musical opportunities for our students.

The music provision is broad and celebrates many different styles of music, with teaching that draws on many approaches including those of Kodaly, Dalcroze and Musical Futures. Pupils at KS3 receive a weekly singing assembly, participate in sung Mass and sing within class music lessons (Year 7 receiving 2x music lessons per week). The department delivers a varied curriculum that develops skills in music technology, keyboard, ukulele, composition, ensemble playing, theory & notation and appraisal. The department has eighteen pupils taking Music in Year 10, and a cohort of twenty-five (one sixth of the year group) electing to take Music GCSE in September 2018. The department runs five choirs, a College Orchestra, theory clubs, an advanced musicianship class and a Guitar Ensemble.

The College delivers approximately 10-15 concerts per year, ranging from instrumental recitals to larger scale concerts; for example, College performed 'Oliver' in 2016, we have an annual gospel 'Good news' concert and there is an annual infant nativity and Year 3-4 Passion Play. The music department runs trips approximately every two-three weeks; recent trips have included singing the Messiah at the Albert Hall, performing at the Rose Theatre, hearing chamber music at the Cadogan Hall and seeing Wicked. The department is constantly seeking new and varied opportunities for its students. Pupils have benefitted from a visiting professional string quartet, a gospel workshop, recording sessions at the Roundhouse Theatre and a trip to observe the Westminster Cathedral choirboys at rehearsal.

The College has strong links with its core feeder schools, where pupils have performed with our primary students at the Rose Theatre, attended composition workshops at St Richard Reynolds, and more recently, joined forces with the College's Chamber Choir and choir parents, staff, friends and governors, for a performance of Fauré's Requiem. Alongside teaching at St Richard Reynolds, Miss Firman and Miss Williams deliver all music teaching at St Elizabeth's Catholic Primary School, a core feeder school for the College.
